

A photograph of a building's exterior. The building has a yellow upper section and a green lower section. A black metal staircase with a railing leads up to a covered entrance. A black metal lattice gate is in the foreground. A large, rounded stone is on the right. Two white text boxes with black borders and arrows point to specific features. The first box points to the green wall, and the second points to the lattice gate. The ground is grassy with some snow patches and a paved path.
